Lakin defeats Harrison, Romine for street post

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Longtime Granite City street department employee Jerry Lakin easily outdistanced his boss and another challenger in the race for street superintendent Tuesday.

"It feels good to win by this margin," Lakin said after learning that he had defeated incumbent Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison by a two-to-one margin.

Street department worker Glenn Romine finished third in the race.

Lakin won in 33 of the city's 36 precincts, garnering 3,239 votes. Harrison won the remaining three precincts and received 1,605 votes. Romine tallied 719 votes and did not finish first in any precinct.

Lakin said that he will make some changes at the street department after he takes office in May.

"I've got to go out and make the people of Granite City happy. They've got to get some services," Lakin said.

"I'm not going to make any promises I can't keep, but we've got to give some services back to the people. I think the decision to resume the sewer routing service was a step in the right direction," Lakin said.

Paul Ray Bowler, Lakin's campaign manager, said that Lakin has a plan to change practices at the street department and to make himself more accountable for the department's performance.

"I think I'll be able to work well with the mayor and the City Council," Lakin said.

Lakin kept his acceptance speech simple. He thanked those who worked for his campaign.

"I won't let you down," he said.

Wilson wins battle, loses war

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Pontoon Beach Mayor Glen Wilson won his battle, but his party lost the war.

Incumbent Wilson's victory over Trustee Mike Macek of the United for Progress party was the night's only bright spot for the Village Improvement Party as incumbent clerk Lou Whitsell, incumbent trustees Bill Ross and Janet Barringer, and trustee candidate Don McNew were all beaten.

While Macek, Karlechik and the other newly-elected UFP trustees said they would try to work with the mayor, Wilson said he believes the village will go "downhill" as a result of the election's outcome.

As election results were finalized at about 10:15 p.m., the mood at the UFP's headquarters was somber. Many supporters congratulating Wilson added comments such as "good luck, you're going to need it."

According to unofficial results, in the mayor's race Wilson defeated Macek 493-440.

Granite City will have five brand-new elected city officials in May.

While half of the eight incumbents seeking re-election failed in their bids, all five candidates previously appointed to positions by Mayor Ron Selph won races Tuesday.

Selph was pleased by the election results. "I look forward to opening a dialogue and working with all the new officials," he said.

While he noted that he has been working well of late with the present council, Selph was obviously pleased with the results.

Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison will be replaced by Jerry Lakin, who won overwhelmingly in Tuesday's election.

There will also be four new faces on the City Council — those of Brian Fuzessery, Nancy Sanders, Alan Crider and Bob Cook.

Both Crider and Cook defeated incumbents seeking re-election to gain the aldermanic seats.

In the 2nd Ward, newcomer Fuzessery will fill the seat occupied for the last eight years by Jim Miller. In the most tightly contested election in the city this year, Fuzessery defeated former alderman Virgil Kamborian 392-370 to win the council seat.

Edgar to honor 3 officers

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Three Granite City police officers are among only 11 statewide who have been chosen to receive the Law Enforcement Medal of Honor from Gov. Jim Edgar.

Sgt. Rich Miller and Patrolman Joe Mangiaracino and Dennis Shemwell were selected as "law enforcement officers who have distinguished themselves by gallantry and life above and beyond the call of duty."

Miller, Mangiaracino and Shemwell were the first officers to arrive in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center the night of Feb. 4, 1994, when a crazed gunman opened fire — apparently at random — into stores, at pedestrians and at passing cars. A total of 47 rounds of ammunition were exchanged during the shoot out. Except for the gunman, all victims including a woman, a man and a dog — survived their wounds. Miller, Mangiaracino and Shemwell will receive the prestigious honor in a ceremony at the Capitol in Springfield April 28.

"Given the location of the crime and the time of the occurrence (a busy Friday evening), it is incredible no other injuries were sustained," Police Chief Dave Ruehausen said.

"Although our officers go through extensive training under stressful conditions, there is no way to actually prepare them for this type of an event."

"We are extremely proud of our officers. We feel that this award reflects highly on the department and the city."

Ruehausen said.

Shooting recalled*Gunnman had been acting strangely

The following account of the events of Feb. 4, 1994, was compiled by police from eye-witness statements.

Gary Smith, the gunman, was seen behaving strangely near the Ponderosa Restaurant in Nameoki Village at 7:45 p.m. Feb. 4.

Witnesses said Smith, 38, was "goose-stepping like a Nazi" and talking to himself as he walked his dog.

By 8:25 p.m., Smith and the dog had made their way across the parking lot to a small strip mall which includes Dave's Movies and More, a furniture store and several other offices.

Smith, armed with a Glock 9 mm semi-automatic pistol, beat and strangled his dog before shooting it twice. He then turned and fired three rounds through a plate glass window into the furniture store. One of the bullets missed the store manager's head by less than a foot.

Smith turned, looked and fired at a woman in a nearby parked car who heard the shots and the dog yelping. The woman ducked down in the car seat and one bullet entered the car through the driver's door.

By 8:30 p.m., Smith began walking toward the video store. Just as a man and his wife were leaving the store, Smith opened fire and one of the bullets struck the woman in the thigh.

An unarmed security guard working at the video store heard the gunfire, exited the store and ran directly into Smith, who shot the guard. The bullet passed through the guard's arm and into his abdomen. The guard then stumbled back into the store and warned customers to escape.

A panic ensued as Smith, waving the 9 mm Glock and screaming orders, followed the guard into the store. As patrons stampeded out another door, Smith fired a number of shots, apparently at random, into the parking lot.

Store employees, terrified, barricaded themselves in an office at the video store and called police at 8:31 p.m.

One minute later, Smith re-entered the video store and confronted Kris Curtis, who was shielding a young child who had been separated from her parents during the panic. Curtis pleaded with Smith not to shoot the girl and to drop the gun. Smith, babbling and foaming at the mouth, pointed the gun at the girl but did not fire.

Smith then jumped behind a counter, grabbed a female employee, held the gun to her head and ordered her to the basement.

Police received a second call on the incident at 8:33 p.m. when a woman, bleeding from a gunshot wound, staggered into the nearby Nameoki Cinema lobby to call 911.

Miller was the first officer to arrive on the scene at 8:34 p.m. He approached the north door of the video store after being told by terrified patrons that an armed man was inside the store shooting people.

Miller called for an ambulance and backup units, then peered through the glass door to see Smith with his hostage at the front video counter. The hostage saw Miller and quickly backed away from Smith. Smith then saw Miller and an exchange of gunfire erupted while the hostage escaped to a back office. With a two-handed hold on the pistol, Smith fired at Miller, leaped over the counter and ran head-first through the plate glass door. Smith continued to fire on Miller, who was forced from his defensive position just outside the door.

Smith and Miller exchanged gunfire across the parking lot as scattered patrons sought cover in parked cars.

Mangiaracino and Shemwell arrived on the scene at 8:36 p.m. Miller fell backward on the parking lot and Smith was closing in on him when Mangiaracino drove up to Smith from behind and shouted for Smith to drop the gun.

His attention diverted from Miller, Smith turned and fired at Mangiaracino. One round struck the sedan car in the fender and another shattered a spotlight on the car right in front of Mangiaracino's face. Mangiaracino returned fire and Shemwell, hiding behind a snow pile, also fired at Smith.

Caught in a triangle between the three officers, Smith was repeatedly struck by bullets. He fell to the ground and dropped his weapon. But he recovered long enough to pick up the pistol, rise to his knees and fire at Mangiaracino once more. More rounds struck Smith as he fell to the ground a second time.

Smith was pronounced dead when he arrived at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. A live round was later found jammed in the chamber of his gun.

Fax helps track murder suspect

By Scott Cousins

If it weren't for their fax and copying machine, the Madison Police department could have let a man wanted for murder slip through their fingers.

On Saturday, police arrested Raymond Jones, 28, of St. Louis after he allegedly broke in the door of an apartment in the Grenzer Homes.

After being identified, police discovered Jones was wanted on warrants by the St. Louis Police Department for first-degree murder and unlawful carrying of a concealed weapon. He was also wanted by the FBI for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, the St. Charles County, Mo., Sheriff's Department for burglary, and the Missouri Department of Corrections for violating parole.

Police Chief Paul Bargiel said that without the copying machine and fax, police might not have been able to properly identify Jones.

According to police reports, at about 3:28 a.m. April 1, police received a 911 call about a man banging on the door of an apartment at Grenzer Homes. Police received a second 911 call while responding to the scene.

As officers arrived, they saw two subjects fleeing the apartment. One suspect, identified as Lakeita S. Richards, 29, of St. Louis, fell down and was captured. She was later charged with criminal trespass.

Officers chased Jones, who pulled out a handgun and threw it away during the chase. Jones resisted arrest and was subdued using pepper mace. As he was being brought back to the scene, officers recovered a loaded 9mm Ruger semi-automatic pistol. When Jones was searched police discovered a pill container and what was believed to be drugs.

After he was brought back to the police station, Bargiel said Jones kept giving different names and stories. He was finally identified after police took fingerprints, enlarged them on the copying machine, and faxed the prints to the FBI.

Jones has been transferred from the Madison County jail.

In another weekend incident, a Granite City man was charged with residential burglary after allegedly being caught trying to pry open a house door with a screwdriver.

Lonnie W. Clark, 36, of the 2900 block of Buxton Avenue, was charged with attempted residential burglary. He is in custody at the Madison County jail on $75,000 bond.

According to police, the incident occurred at approximately 11:48 a.m. in the 1700 block of Elizabeth.

Bargiel credited witnesses who reported the break-in and then stayed on the line and continued to give them information until the suspect was captured.

New patrolmen were top academy graduates

Granite City's three newest police officers performed well in recently-completed coursework at the police academy at Belleville Area College.

Aaron Flynn, Tony Merz and Tom Moslander graduated from the academy March 24. They will be riding along on patrol with training officers for the next three months before being considered for solo patrol, police Chief Dave Ruebhausen said.

Upon graduation from the academy, Flynn received an award from the Southern Illinois Police Chiefs' Association as top officer in the class. He tied for the award with probationary Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Michael B. Farrell, Ruebhausen said.

Merz also brought home hardware. He was named the top shooter in the class.

Moslander was second in the class in academic achievement, losing to the top performer by 0.37 points.

"We're extremely proud of our recruits for their accomplishments at the academy and look forward to their continued fine performance on the streets of Granite City," Ruebhausen said.

The city's police and fire commissioners are currently in the process of compiling a new eligibility list for new officers.

More than 150 prospective officers picked up applications from the city. Fifty-nine of the candidates attended an orientation class, and the number has been pared to 26 after written and physical fitness exams were given.

Oral interviews are scheduled for late April and a new eligibility list should be out in mid-May.

A Venice man with an outstanding felony warrant for possession of a firearm by a felon faces additional weapons and drug charges after Venice police officers arrested him Saturday afternoon.

Derrick A. Barefield, 17, of the 300 block of Mercedocia Avenue, Venice, was arrested after being spotted by Venice officers at about 5:15 p.m. April 4, at the corner of Baucum and Market.

According to police reports, the officers knew that Barefield had an outstanding warrant for possession of a firearm by a felon. Barefield, one of those arrested during an undercover investigation by Venice and Madison police last year, was on probation for unlawful possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver.

As he was being apprehended, Barefield allegedly tried to escape, and was forced to the ground and pepper-maced by police. During the struggle, officers noticed a clear plastic bag in Barefield's hand. The bag contained what police believe is crack cocaine.

As they were searching Barefield, police reportedly found a loaded .380 caliber semi-automatic handgun. In addition to the charge in the outstanding warrant, Barefield was charged with another count of illegal possession of a firearm by a felon.

THE LAW AND ORDER

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

The question sometimes arises as to whether an employer can be held responsible for the negligent, willful, malicious or even criminal acts of its employees. To answer this question in a given case, one would have to look to the legal principle known as "respondent superior." The literal translation of this phrase from the Latin is "let the master answer." This doctrine allows a person injured by an employee to look to the employer for recovery in certain cases.

Illinois law provides that an employer may be liable for the negligent, willful, malicious, or criminal acts of its employees when such acts are committed in the course of employment and in furtherance of the business of the employer. The employer is not liable to an injured person where the acts complained of were done solely for the benefit of the employee.

In one recent case, a teacher's aide at a YMCA day care center allegedly beat and sexually assaulted a three-year old child who was a pupil at the facility. The parents filed suit against the aide and the YMCA and alleged that the teacher's aide sexually molested the child and struck her while the employee was "in the course of her employment" at the day care center. The YMCA moved to dismiss the part of the complaint directed at it, contending that the offensive acts were not done within the scope of the aide's employment. The Circuit Court dismissed the counts of the complaint directed at the YMCA, and the plaintiff appealed this decision.

Should the YMCA be responsible for the intentional acts of its employee in this case? The Appellate Court ruled that the teacher's aide was not acting within the scope of her employment when she committed these acts but rather was acting solely for her own benefit when she assaulted and sexually molested the young girl. Therefore, the principle of respondent superior was found not to apply in this case, and the YMCA was properly dismissed from the suit.

In a similar case decided in 1985, a security guard stopped a young girl after she made a purchase and led her to an enclosed office for the purpose of searching her. There he sexually molested her. The Court here also ruled that the employee's actions were a deviation from the scope of employment, and the grocery store was not liable to the injured girl.

Lux, Miller win Madison seats

Franklin loses in Venice

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Madison and Venice will be seeing new faces on their respective boards following Tuesday's elections.

In Madison, Alexis Lux soundly defeated incumbent Richard George in Ward 1, while incumbent Ralph Miller held off a determined attack by challenger Thomas Cass in the Ward 2. In other ward races, incumbents John Hann, Norris Horton and Harvey Haynes were unopposed.

In Venice's Ward 1, newcomer Celestine Williams pulled in more than 75 percent of the vote against opponents Earl Hogan and Larry Brown to take the seat vacated by Michael Terrell, who did not seek re-election. In Ward 2, challenger Ruby Johnson defeated incumbent Silver Franklin, while incumbent George Wade held off challenger William M. Tyler.

Incumbent aldermen Harold Wilson and Victor Valentine were unopposed in the 3rd and 4th wards.

In Madison, Lux captured 72 percent of the vote, winning 146-66.

"It's something I worked hard for," Lux said. "I'm happy with the way things turned out."

Lux said she was proud of her supporters.

"I think people are really ready for a change and are tired of promises that are not kept," she said.

Lux said her first priorities are working on a neighborhood watch group and seeing trash picked up around Madison.

George could not be reached for comment.

The Ward 2 race between Miller and Cass was much closer. Miller received 58 percent of the vote, winning 195-140.

"I fought a tough battle," Miller said. "First they tried to kick me off the ballot in court, then the St. Louis paper kicked me off, then the Belleville paper."

Miller's candidacy was challenged by his opponent's wife, Sharon Cass. After being thrown off the ballot by the Madison Election Board, Miller appealed the decision in court and was reinstated.

In their election guides, both the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Belleville News-Democrat reported that Cass was unopposed in the election.

"I was really happy to pull through," Miller said.

Cass said he was "satisfied" with the results and called Miller Tuesday night to congratulate him.

"I think we had a good showing," Cass said. "We ran a clean campaign, and it was a good honest run."

In Venice's Ward 1, Williams buried her two opponents. Unofficial results show her getting 81 votes, Earl Hogan with 10 votes, and Larry Brown with 15 votes.

"I'd like to thank God and thank everybody in Ward 1 for supporting me," Williams said. "I'm going to stand by my word that I will work hard and try to get something accomplished."

In Ward 2, Johnson received 128 votes to Franklin's 89 votes.

"I think it's great," Johnson said. "Our plans are to help clean up the city, provide recreation for our children and make sure our street department is taken care of."

Franklin said he was not surprised by the results, and said it might be a positive thing for the city.

Because he and Ward 1 alderman Terrell were not a part of the council's inner group, Franklin said it was almost impossible for them to accomplish anything. "Dealing with a non-progressive council is difficult," he said. "We were just trying to get normal things done — clean up the trash, get the streets fixed."

"If you're not part of them, it's very difficult to get anything done," he added.

In the other Ward 2 race, incumbent George Wade received 129 votes while challenger William Tyler received 79.

"I think it was great. I'm glad I won," Wade said. "I think we can get a lot of things done."

In another Venice race, Olivia Annette Ervin was unopposed for the six-year term on the Park District Board.

Argument leads to shooting at bar

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A Madison man faces weapon and drug charges after a barroom argument resulted in a shooting early Monday morning.

Donald L. Richmond, 41, of the 200 block of Alto Avenue, was charged with aggravated battery with a firearm and unlawful possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver following a shooting at the 12th Street Saloon, located in the 1100 block of Greenwood Street, Madison.

The victim was treated and released at St. Elizabeth Medical Center with a gunshot wound to the right forearm.

According to reports, at approximately 12:42 a.m. Monday, police received reports of shots being fired outside the bar.

According to witnesses, Richmond and the victim had been arguing in the bar when he brandished a pistol. As Richmond was being escorted out the door, he yelled at the victim, who followed Richmond outside. Witnesses then heard a single gunshot.

Another man went outside and saw both men wrestling on the ground, each having a hand on the pistol. The witness said he took the gun.

After the two stopped fighting, witnesses said the victim went back into the bar, while Richmond got on his motorcycle and left.

At that point police arrived and stopped Richmond.

Police recovered a .380 caliber semi-automatic pistol. While searching Richmond, police discovered a loaded magazine for a .380 caliber pistol and a plastic bag containing a brown powder later identified as methamphetamine.

The victim, who police describe as being uncooperative, was found sitting at the bar with a bloody towel wrapped around his right arm.

The victim eventually admitted that Richmond shot him, but said he would not press charges and asked police to drop the matter.

Richmond was charged and released after posting a $15,000 cash bond.

"His girlfriend came in with $15,000 in small bills in a Shop 'N Save bag," Police Chief Paul Bargiel said.

Pet owners have a responsibility

(The following column is by Dr. Davis S. Hall of Creekwood Animal Clinic in Collinsville. He is administrator of rabies control for Madison County.)

You say you're getting a dog or cat and you are getting it from an animal shelter? Good for you! As a veterinarian, animal control administrator and pet lover, let me be the first to congratulate you. By doing this, you have saved a life and will probably be rewarded by loving the best pet you could get anywhere. As a pet owner, you now have a very important responsibility to your pet and to all homeless animals who are still "out there." Get your pet spayed or neutered.

You see, when your pet is responsible for even one new litter of puppies or kittens because you let it breed — for every one of those new animals who finds a home, there will be one less home that needs a pet from the shelter — and an animal in a shelter will be killed. Approximately 15 million pets die in shelters every year.

Notice that I also mentioned that spaying or neutering a pet was a responsibility to the pet itself. Ask any veterinarian and he/she will tell you that a spayed female or neutered male pet has a much better chance for a long and happy life. The reasons are numerous.

Why you should spay your female pet:

1. In dogs, spaying at an early age greatly reduces the risk of mammary cancer.

2. Spaying eliminates the possibility of your pet developing the life-threatening uterine infection called pyometra.

3. A spayed female will never develop the complications of pregnancy or need a C-section.

4. Spaying eliminates that annoying behavior of cats in heat.

5. If your pet is spayed, she will not attract animals around your house.

Why you should neuter your male pet:

1. Neutering greatly reduces the incidence of prostate disease in dogs.

2. A neutered pet is more apt to stay at home and avoid being hit by cars or getting in fights.

3. Neutering generally causes a pet to be more even-tempered and gentle, although most will still defend their territory and are good watchdogs.

4. Neutering eliminates the possibility of testicular cancer.

5. Most neutered cats will not spray.

You may know some misinformed people who will give reasons not to spay or neuter their pets. Here are some reasons and my responses to them.

Misinformed Person: "Neutered or spayed cats don't make good mousers."

Dr. Hall: "The desire and ability to catch mice is not a sex-driven characteristic. That is to say, if a cat likes to chase mice, he will like to do it whether he has testicles or not."

Misinformed Person: "Neutered dogs don't make good watchdogs."

Dr. Hall: "Again, the protective instinct that many dogs have is not sex-driven. In fact, many military guard dogs are neutered so they will keep their mind on their job."

Misinformed Person: "Neutered dogs don't make good watchdogs."

Dr. Hall: "This is completely wrong for male animals. However, spayed females' metabolism does tend to slow down, but if you don't over-feed them they will not get fat."

Misinformed Person: "Neutered dogs don't hunt well."

Dr. Hall: "Nonsense. As in cats, the ability to hunt is not related to sexual urges. In fact, removing the sex organs helps keep the dogs from becoming distracted."

Misinformed Person: "All dogs should be allowed the joy of childbirth before being spayed."

Dr. Hall: "Respect has proved this wrong."

As I stated at the beginning, by adopting a pet you have done a wonderful thing, but if you let your pet breed, you have become part of the problem. If you aren't convinced, come see me at the animal shelter sometime. We kill dozens of animals who are homeless because of pet overpopulations.

Rice feeds needy's self-esteem

It may not be politically correct to oppose a pro-football stadium and riverboat casino. But that is the stance of the Rev. Larry Rice, who urges a higher funding priority for poor, ailing and homeless people.

Familiar to television viewers on Channel 24 (Cable Channel 7), Rice heads the New Life Evangelical Center, 1411 Locust St. in St. Louis and 422 St. Louis Ave. in East St. Louis.

There are also centers in Eureka Springs, Ark., and in the Missouri cities of Columbia, Springfield, Jefferson City, Fair-dealing, New Bloomfield, Van Buren, Marshfield and Kansas City.

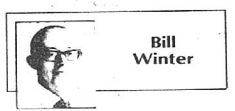

In addition to KNLC, there are TV stations in Branson, Osage Beach, Jefferson City, Lebanon, Marshfield and Springfield.

New Life Evangelical Center provides training and reading programs, food, blanket, heater and summer fan distribution.

"Dogs and cats should go through a heat cycle before being spayed," Dr. Hall said. "Respect has proved this wrong."

As I stated at the beginning, by adopting a pet you have done a wonderful thing, but if you let your pet breed, you have become part of the problem. If you aren't convinced, come see me at the animal shelter sometime. We kill dozens of animals who are homeless because of pet overpopulations.

As Rice sees it, "It is impossible to separate the work of the church from the world in which we live. Every person has both a body and a soul. The salvation of one often requires the healing of the other."

Discussing the approach of Easter on April 16, he urges each church to "respond to the hurts and needs in the community in which it exists."

"The message of the Resurrection is not one of retreat from the problems of the world, but one of victory. The church that has tapped into the resurrection power of Jesus is an empowered church. It is a dynamic church that not only preaches the power but lives it out through the empowerment of the broken lives of others."

"Such empowerment is a result of prayer backed up by faith. It is just as concerned about restoring the 'least of these' in the congregation as it is about church growth. Real empowerment means helping those in need to plant seeds of faith by seeking employment, starting businesses or even ministries."

"It means helping persons discover their God-given talents, dignity and self-respect."

"Empowerment begins with a full stomach, a warm place to sleep and the hope for something better than a constant handout."

"As a result of the power of the Resurrection at work in each believer, we can make a difference. The time of looking to government to do for us what we, as believers, can do is past."

"The time has come for us to create jobs, housing, day care, shelters, food, educational and other direct-help programs for the broken and disenfranchised until they, too, can declare, 'I can do all things through Christ Jesus who strengthens me.'"

NLEC not only is active in mid-America but also helps people in India, Bangladesh, Haiti and other lands.

It sponsors construction of affordable housing in St. Louis, New Bloomfield and House Springs, Mo. It operates free clothing stores in seven cities. It provides emergency housing shelters in East St. Louis and eight other cities.

The center encourages volunteers to take tangible steps to "touch a hurting world. It takes getting beyond your own needs, setting them aside for a time, and reaching out to your brothers and sisters."

"When we do this out of love, there is no limit to the creativity we can develop in searching for ways to help others," Rice says.

"You and your church can set up a sandwich ministry to feed the homeless. Collect personal items (comb, wash cloth, toothpaste, toothbrush, soap) and put them in zip-lock bags as care kits for the homeless."

"Make up job or apartment listings from newspaper ads for the homeless unemployed, raise money to buy weekly bus passes for newly employed homeless men and women to get to work, get a pool of doctors, dentists and lawyers to offer free services to the homeless once a week, spend one or more nights a week at the shelter closest to you, or work full-time at a shelter."

Where does Larry Rice find the energy, vision and tenacity to be the sparkplug for an ever-widening circle of missions?

He cites the reference in Ephesians 1:19-20 to "the immeasurable and unlimited and surpassing greatness of His power in and for us who believe."

Rev. Rice concludes that "the Word of God tells us that those who embrace it have an unfathomable source of power dwelling inside them."

"Those who have cast aside the deadness and futility of their lives apart from God, in exchange for a resurrection to a new life, can discover the Ephesians formula for empowerment."

Letters to the editor

Incident shows goodness exists

TO THE EDITOR:

The newspapers and nightly news abound with reports on teenaged murderers, drug addicts and thieves. Citizens whose perspectives are limited to those found in the media might well believe that our young people are a singularly immoral, or amoral, lot.

However, something happened recently that assured me otherwise. After shopping in our local food store, I forgot my purse in the shopping cart and drove home. Realizing my mistake, I returned to the store in a panic, certain that I would be forced to spend hours notifying credit card companies and stopping checks. But, when I got there, I found that a 13-year-old girl had already retrieved and turned my purse in to the customer service counter. Nothing was disturbed. I had the manager page the young woman, Christina, who is a student at Coolidge Junior High School. She was modest about her good deed, protesting that she'd done nothing special.

I don't agree, Christina, you've restored my somewhat battered faith in young people. Thank you, and thank you to your parents, who raised you so well.

Fire causes tax problem

TO THE EDITOR:

I had rental property in my back yard, and it was destroyed by fire Dec. 18, 1994.

When I had my income tax filed, they stated I must build another house within two years or pay income tax on the insurance I collected. I am a senior citizen and widow over 65 years of age, and I don't want rental property in my back yard again. My insurance agent said this was a casualty loss and the adjuster said this is not an earned income.

Now, we paid insurance and income tax on this rental property for 33 years. Why should I be forced to rebuild? Where is my freedom? That law — if it is true — is uncalled for and no age, income or marital status can be taken away from me. The IRS made this statement: "There is nothing more to do but pay the tax."

So, landlords and homeowners, if you have a fire problem, beware of how your insurance on the property can be taken away from you. The IRS also believes this is a gain, but I can't see a gain after 33 years of money paid out to keep the house in order.

I also paid out $2,000 to have the house demolished and hauled away. This case is hard to believe, but it is the true facts. Thank you.

Downsize political bodies?

TO THE EDITOR:

We keep hearing all this talk from the federal politicians about transferring responsibility to the states.

Does this mean that we aren't going to need as many politicians in Washington?

When private industry "downsized" they usually get rid of some top people, not just "staff."

Question: Do we really need 100 U.S. senators and God only know how many representatives to decide how to spend taxpayers' money?

Maybe we could computerize some of it. Computers might be more resistant to lobbyists. Some of those politicians claim to be doing the work of two men. They are right — the James brothers.

Politicians: Pick on someone own size

During the late March week-long slug fest on welfare reform in the U.S. House of Representatives, some remarkably harsh words were uttered and some obvious comparisons made before the bill eventually passed the House by 35 votes.

Rep. Clay Shaw, R-Fla., praised the passage of the bill: "We are sweeping away a destructive system and putting in a system that can work."

A noble objective, right? However, he followed up by admitting, "The road of the poor is going to be a tough road. It's going to be a treacherous road." Not, apparently, that it matters. After all, as we know, unpleasant and malodorous stuff happens.

Two other GOP House members — Barbara Chabon of Wyoming and yet another Floridian, John L. Mica — compared welfare recipients to wild animals.

Specifically (and respectively), wolves and alligators. Welfare, they said, was comparable to feeding these wild creatures and upsetting the laws of nature by making them dependent on human care.

Problem is, that tough and treacherous road is going to be trod by kids, according to the bill's reforms.

Those wolves and gators being fed are children. For instance: Nine federal child care programs will be consolidated in a block grant to states, school breakfast and lunch programs combined into a block grant to states, and combining funding for several nutrition programs into a block grant.

And, under the block grant plan, federal funds would be capped — there would be no more money available should needs increase.

Further, the bill would hold food stamp benefit increases to 2 percent per year, and require all able-bodied people to work. It would replace Aid to Families with Dependent Children with yet another block grant to the states.

While getting the indigent off the welfare rolls and onto a paystake is much to be desired, from the standpoint of realism, the bill does little to spell out how this will be done.

Education? Work training? Child care centers for working (or training-for-work) mothers? That will be up to the individual states, the bill's supporters have said, with a casual but regal wave of the hand.

In fact, about the only item in the bill that seems to satisfy both states and feds to track down parents who are remiss in paying child support and make them ante up.

The bill's partisans claim that it will save $66 billion over a five-year period, a fair chunk of change by anybody's standards.

Yet, for whatever reason, when House Democrats sought to set aside any savings resulting from welfare reform and earmark them for reduction of the federal deficit rather than for tax cuts, the measure failed to pass by 23 votes.

That $66 billion in five years sounds great, but not if it's at the expense of malnourished children.

Carol Clark

From a personal standpoint, I've never gone hungry in my life and my bet is that Shaw, Mica and Cuban haven't walked in those moccasins, either. I do know that hungry kids make packluster students and easy prey to disease.

I suspect that if one — or one child — is hungry enough, they'd probably do just about anything for food, the least of which would be stealing it. I'm sure those same Congressmen who conceived the brave new welfare world are as much against crime as they are against sin — probably more. And I know civilized people don't make whipping boys of their kids.

Fortunately, the Senate will have considerable say-so as to whether the House bill survives intact. Those with political expertise say the Senate won't buy it, at least in its current form. Sens. Hatch, Specter and Chafee — Republicans all — are already questioning some of the House bill's provisions.

They all might listen to what Rep. Harold Ford of Tennessee, in his argument against the bill, told his House colleagues: "Pick on someone your own size."

APA fighting the good fight

Each year there are more and more of them without a home. Kittens and puppies — animals born into a world that doesn't want them.

Statistically, only one out of every six puppies will find a home. Eleven out of every 12 kittens will be killed or abandoned.

There are 70,000 puppies and kittens born each day — seven times the number of human births. In a period of six years, a female dog and her offspring can reproduce 67,000 puppies.

In seven years, a cat and her young can produce 420,000 kittens.

The Association for the Protection of Animals (APA) in Granite City is trying to change those statistics. By education and adoption, the APA seeks to control the pet population and find a loving home for every animal.

The APA operates the only no-kill shelter in the area. The goal is to save as many animals as possible and find homes for them.

"There is no glory out here. You're here for one thing — to deal with the animals," said APA President John Vasquez.

"If you can't do that, well then..." he said, shrugging and leaving the statement open-ended.

But because the APA is a no-kill shelter — the agency keeps all animals for their natural life or until they are adopted — and because space is limited to about 30 dogs and 28 cats, there are many more stray animals than the shelter can care for.

"We still have dogs and cats left over from the flood (two years ago).

"The other day I found seven puppies in a wire basket dumped on Old Alton Road (near the shelter). (The people who left them) didn't even have the sense to bring them to the shelter," Vasquez said.

In an effort to expand space and to provide a better environment for the animals, the APA recently added a 34-foot by 60-foot concrete pad for dogs to run on. The shelter is currently adding a cat room.

All the materials have been donated and the labor is being provided by local unions at no charge.

"There is still a lot we have to do," Vasquez said.

"We need volunteers. We are always strapped for cash," he said.

"If we run out of money, there are animals we can't help."

The APA provides veterinary checkups, shots and spay or neutering for all animals at the shelter.

All the animals must be fed until the agency can adopt out the pets to a home where they can receive love and attention.

"We try to keep prices low so people can afford them. Dogs are $35 and cats are $25. That includes all shots, worming, collars and spaying or neutering," Vasquez said.

Last month was a good one, with 44 dogs and 20 cats finding homes.

But the animals come in just as quickly as they are adopted out.

"We have a waiting list. As soon as we get a cage empty, we call and it's filled," Vasquez said.

The animals are expensive to care for.

"We go through about 100 pounds of dog and cat food a week and about 300 pounds of cat litter a week," Vasquez said.

"Our biggest expense is veterinary bills. That usually comes to between $2,000 and $2,400 a month," he said.

Recently, the shelter took in a German Shepherd that was hit by a car. The APA paid $400 to have a pin placed in the animal's hip.

"Then the previous owners came and adopted him. They gave us $100, but we lost $300," Vasquez said.

The shelter is open from 8 a.m. to noon every day. Persons wanting to adopt a pet may visit the shelter during those hours.

The phone number is 931-7030.

The APA is holding a benefit dance Saturday in Granite City. Call the shelter for information.

Man 'bytes' dog

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A computer chip smaller than a dime can now mean the difference between reuniting a lost pet with its owners or burying it.

The Avid Microchip, a small computer chip implanted into the pet's shoulder, enables animal control officers to reunite pets and owners by scanning the chip and calling a 1-800 number.

The company manufacturing the scanners and chips recently donated scanners to Granite City's animal control department and the Granite City Association for the Protection of Animals. That donation enables them to join the Madison County Humane Society, the Madison County Animal Control Office, and a growing number of animal shelters and veterinarians using the new technology.

Carl Hozian, a foreman with the Granite City Sanitation Department, which operates the animal control office, said the new technology will help identify strays they bring in.

"Regular dog tags might come off, but with the chip being inside there is no way it can come off," he said.

Larry Davis, a local veterinarian, said the chip and scanner will eventually keep a large number of pets from being euthanized.

"It's important because if we have animals that are chipped, when they come in to a facility like this they can be scanned and we can find the proper owners," he said. "Otherwise many of these pets would never be found by the owners until they're already put to sleep."

The chip is injected into the shoulder muscle using a needle. Once in place, it will stay there for life.

Davis said he uses a local anesthetic, but even without it there would be little pain for the animal.

"There is going to be a little poke," he said. "Not anything people should be afraid of."

"I did my dog without any painkiller at all because I wanted to see how he would respond," Davis said. "He didn't even flinch."

The cost of injecting the chip is $25. Registering the pet, which enables someone using the scanner to call a 1-800 number and finding the owner, is either $35 for lifetime for all animals, or $7.50 per animal.

The procedure is normally done on dogs and cats, but can also be used on other animals such as expensive birds.

Free skin screenings to be offered

Each year more than 700,000 Americans are diagnosed with skin cancer — one of the most common forms of cancer. Studies show skin cancer is linked to repeated sun exposure, and in many cases, can be prevented by taking a few precautions.

Fortunately, skin cancer is the easiest cancer to detect, and, if found early enough, most can be treated successfully. The key is awareness.

St. Elizabeth Health Services is offering free skin cancer screenings from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 6, at three locations. Screenings will be held at the SEHS Collinsville Health Center, 800 St. Louis Road in Collinsville; the Edwardsville Health Center, 1123 University Drive in Edwardsville; and the Procter and Gamble Health Services Industrial Medicine Office, in the Wolf Medical Building, 244 Madison Ave. in Granite City. Screenings are sponsored by St. Elizabeth Medical Center's medical staff and cancer program.

An SEMC physician will perform screenings and will encourage any suspicious areas a patient may have. The examinations will be done privately.

the five precincts in the 2nd Ward race. Fuzessery, who was appointed by Selph to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission, won decisively in the two precincts he captured.

In the 4th Ward, Sanders will replace retiring alderman Dan Partney. Sanders was unopposed after Partney dropped out of the race for health reasons.

Sanders, who will be a principal at Lake Elementary School next year, is also a commissioner on the Granite City Park District Board. She said she has not yet a n o u n c e d when she intends to vacate the Park Board office.

Crider, also a principal in the Granite City School District, will begin a two-year term in the 6th Ward in May. Crider captured $50 vote in winning three of four precincts and defeated newcomer Charley Cross, who garnered 385 votes.

Cook also defeated an incumbent and will take an aldermanic seat in the 7th Ward. Cook, who was appointed by Selph to the Planning and Zoning Commission, defeated Sandy Crites 606-492. Crites won her home precinct by 13 votes, but Cook took the remaining four precincts.

In other council races, three incumbent aldermen who were appointed to the position by Selph were successful in their bids to be re-elected. Incumbents Bob Shipley, Lurton Pulley and Mac Warfield will all return to the council.

Shipley, whom Selph appointed to replace former Alderman Paul Risk resigned, defeated fellow incumbent Juanita Crawley in the 3rd Ward by a three-to-one margin. Crawley was elected 1st Ward Alderman four years ago, but was forced by redistricting to run in the 3rd Ward.

Pulley, whom Selph appointed to replace former Alderman Tom Candler, managed to garner 247 votes — 44 percent of the vote — in a four-way race for the 5th Ward seat he currently occupies. Newcomer Matthew Miller finished second in the race with 199 votes (36 percent), followed by James Bailey Sr. with 88 votes (16 percent) and Edward Hogan with 26 votes (5 percent).

Warfield, whom Selph appointed to replace former Alderman and current City Clerk Judy Whitaker, captured nearly 70 percent of the vote to win a four-year term in the 6th Ward. Warfield defeated Wayne Scannell 859-355. Incumbent 1st Ward Alderman Bob Page had no ballot opposition in his bid for re-election. In other elections in Granite City, Ron Parente and Barry Loman were both re-elected to the Granite City Park Board. Parente finished first in the four-way race for two seats with 3,287 votes, while firefighter Leonard Wilson Jr. garnered 1,970 and Brian Patterson got 1,481.

Both Mary Jo Akeman and George Filcoff Sr. were re-elected to the Granite City Board of Trustees. They had no opposition on the ballot.

Durbin blasts welfare reform plan

The Republican welfare bill would take nutritious food off the plates of thousands of children and force many of their working parents onto welfare, U.S. Rep. Richard Durbin warned recently.

"The Gingrich Republicans have used the welfare reform bill as a vehicle for financing tax cuts for the privileged few while taking school lunches from our children," he said. "They are trying to cut federal spending first to raise money to fund a tax break that is lopsided. There are too many breaks for the wealthy, privileged few."

The Springfield Democrat sat at a table with 16 day-care providers in the Edwardsville Public Library to hear how cuts in the bill would affect federally subsidized nutrition programs, including the Women, Infants and Children program.

Valerie Klenke, a nutritionist for the WIC program in Alton, said she is angry over the proposed cuts. "Why are we looking at women and children as a way to save money? There probably is a way to revamp every program to economize," Klenke said. "Why are women and children without a voice attacked first?"

"What is frightening is a number of people are oblivious," she said. "They don't think anything will happen. It is sad people who voted for reform had no idea they were taking food away from people. The public is not aware of what the cuts are going to mean. They think the WIC program would be untouched, they think (Congress) won't really do that."

Durbin said, "If people view WIC as welfare, they don't understand the program. It is not generally known that it provides assistance to day-care centers. It is the best way to get day care and home care up to standards."

Durbin said 40 percent of infants in the United States are served by the WIC program.

The Personal Responsibility Act, the cornerstone of the GOP's social agenda, passed the U.S. House 234-199 Friday after four days of debate. Only nine Democrats supported it.

Republicans claim the program will free the nation's poor from an endless cycle of poverty and put an end to layers of wasteful federal bureaucracy — a cost of $6 billion in the first five years alone.

Opponents contend it would send block grants to states resulting in cutbacks on nutrition funding.

The bill is in the Senate this week, where President Clinton is hoping it will be turned into a plan more to his liking.

Klenke said the WIC program provides health screenings and educates mothers on nutrition, including dangers of prenatal alcohol use and smoking. It also points them to other social service agencies if they need help.

The WIC program has resulted in a decrease in infant deaths and children with low birth weights, increased use of prenatal and pediatric care and reduced anemia among children, she said.

"We've singlehandedly increased the number of breast-feeding moms," Klenke presented Durbin with a letter blasting the Republicans' Contract with America, predicting it will be "another unfunded mandate on the state of Illinois."

She said ending WIC or having states administer it "would represent exceedingly unwise social and health policy. ... Our national response to welfare reform must be balanced and well thought out. The block granting of nutrition programs appears to be neither balanced nor well thought out."

Klenke said cutting food programs eventually will result in more crime. "We are going to have violence. If they don't have anything to eat, they are going to take it," she said.

Besides the WIC program, other nutrition programs facing cuts include reimbursement of day-care centers and licensed homes of $3 per day per child for serving nutritious meals and free and reduced lunches.

Several day-care operators said if they do not get reimbursed for nutritious meals, they will have to raise their rates and some families will have to quit working because they can't afford child care.

defeat.

"I'm just happy everybody got in," he said. "I've still got two years on the board and there are a lot of changes we're going to do. We'll try to work with the mayor hand-in-hand, but we do have four members of our party on the board."

Falter said the results were "super."

"We appreciated the support of all the people who worked hard and tried to tell the truth," he said. "We're going to try to work with him (Wilson) if that's possible. We're sorry our candidate lost, but we were going to try to do what's best for the village."

Wilson was not optimistic about the direction this election would take the village.

"Truthfully, I see that as putting the village back 10 years," he said. "I think the village will go downhill. I don't think these people are going to do any good."

Barringer and Whitsett declined to comment on the election.

"We thought we had it made, but it worked out differently," Ross said. "Not much you can say about it, but I wish the other party a lot of luck."

Fake IDs target of legislation

SPRINGFIELD — The use of fake identification from Missouri to get into taverns is common among underage students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and other colleges.

Illinois legislators want to change that and are working to make it more difficult for students to buy fake out-of-state identification cards in Illinois.

"Everyone in my fraternity has used a fake ID at one time or another when they were under 21," SIUE senior Dan O'Conner, 23, said. "If you really want one, you can get one."

In Illinois, people selling phony Illinois identification cards face a maximum of three years in jail and a $10,000 fine for a first offense. However, manufacturers of out-of-state IDs cannot be punished.

Unfortunately, because of this loophole, which we plan to close soon, fake ID producers have discovered a ripe black market for out-of-state drivers licenses and IDs," Secretary of State George Ryan said.

Ryan is backing a bill that extends the penalties to Illinois makers of cards from other states. A House committee passed the bill last week.

"The strongest way to guide behavior is to make it a crime and enforce it," Rep. Tom Ryder, R-Jerseyville, said.

The Secretary of State's Office has found that vendors are coming to Illinois and selling identification cards from other states because it is safe, Ryan spokesman Dave Urbanek said.

"Since the Illinois ID has become tougher to duplicate because of the hologram, the Secretary of State police have found more opportunity for out-of-state IDs on the black market," Urbanek said.

Some cards can be altered to show a different birth date, but Illinois' drivers licenses have a hologram that makes tampering difficult.

Urbanek noted that fake out-of-state IDs are more likely to be found at universities located near the Illinois border, such as SIUE. Edwardsville police catch about 30 people a year using false identification, a quarter of whom have out-of-state cards.

"I can take you over to St. Louis and show you where you can get an ID from any state you want," Edwardsville Police Lt. David Bradford said.

Ryan announced last week that 14 college students were caught using fake identification at Eastern Illinois University. The cards were purchased for between $10 and $50 in Missouri and Indiana, which have no laws against making fake IDs for entertainment purposes.

Just having a fake identification card is not a crime in Illinois; it has to be used illegally. Anyone caught using a fake ID to buy alcohol in Illinois faces a minimum $500 fine and 50 days of community service.

Lady Warriors blank Lady Kahoks

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Gene Baker finally found the effort he was looking for in Granite City's 3-0 girls soccer victory over visiting Collinsville on Tuesday.

Now the search is on for Lady Kahoks coach Deana Wallace. The Lady Warriors, playing their fifth game of the season and looking for their first well-rounded performance, got just that in Tuesday's Southwestern Conference shutout victory. Granite City (3-1) shook off several injuries to key players and dominated nearly the entire contest.

But there was a clear difference in game experience between the two teams, as Collinsville showed the effects of taking the field for the first time this season. Saturday's scheduled opener at Mehlville (Mo.) was rained out.

The Lady Kahoks had less than a handful of scoring chances the entire night and fell behind 2-0 in the first half, when the Lady Warriors took control on goals by Jamie Dellbringe and Christy Costillo.

GRANITE CITY, meanwhile, appeared to show the form that carried the Lady Warriors to a fourth-place finish at the state tournament last season.

"The kids played well," said Baker. "It's a good win for the girls. It was a nice team effort. I thought it hurt (Collinsville) not getting any games in."

"We did some good things and some bad things," Wallace said. "It was our first outing, and that makes a big difference."

"I'm not using that as an excuse by any means. They outplayed us and put their opportunities in the net."

The Lady Warriors struck quickly, scoring on their second shot on net 10:54 into the game. Dellbringe drove to an opening in the slot after taking a throw-in pass from Holly Farnsworth and fired a low 20-yard shot past Collinsville goalie Mary Silhuay.

BUT JUST OVER A minute

later, the Lady Kahoks came close to tying the score when Andrea Froncheck drew a foul just outside the penalty area to earn a direct kick. Froncheck sent in a high 20-yard shot that bounced off the top of the crossbar and just out of reach of Granite City goalie Marcie Holsinger.

Froncheck's shot, at 12:01, was Collinsville's best scoring opportunity of the night and could have altered the game's complexion.

"I think it could have," Wallace said. "That can always change the game perspective."

Instead, the Lady Warriors came back with another goal just two minutes later. Christy Costillo took a long pass from fullback Kara Gauen, made her way down the right sideline and scored on a shot that crossed the defense and into the goal.

COSTILLO HAD SEVERAL other scoring chances in the half as the Lady Warriors stepped up the pressure. With 7:35 left, Silhuay made a save on a hard shot by Tonya Genovesse, then stopped Costillo a few seconds later.

"Our pace was good," Baker said. "There were a lot of chances."

The second half was full of opportunities for the Lady Warriors, who outshot the Lady Kahoks 6-1 in the first half and

GCHS tennis team beaten by Lancers in season opener

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Belleville East was ripe for the picking, but the Warriors' first-match jitters kept them from reaching the branches.

The Lancers, a traditional area tennis power, came into Tuesday's match with Granite City in a rebuilding year. However, they had played two matches previously.

THAT COULD HAVE BEEN the difference as the Lancers got by the Warriors 6-3 in Granite City's season opener.

The Warriors' scheduled opener was rained out in Cahokia on Monday. That match has been rescheduled for April 12. So Tuesday's match was the Warriors' first, and coach Allen Lobdell said his team appeared nervous.

"I think the first-match jitters got to us a little bit," he said. "It was our first and their third match, and you need to get your feet wet before you play a difficult team like Belleville East."

Lobdell

"I'm still quite optimistic about this season. I think once we get over the jitters we'll be all right."

The Warriors appeared at first as if they might upset the favored Lancers. GCHS took the first two singles matches and had a quality player in the No. 2 slot.

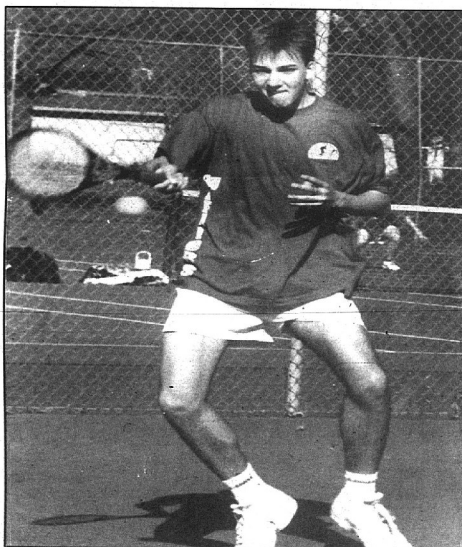

JOE MARKEL STARTED the festivities by cruising past East's Geoff Schultz 6-2, 6-1. Chris Mitchell then defeated Andre Brunner of East in the first of many close matches, 2-6, 7-6 (7-2), 6-3.

But the Lancers then won six of the last seven matches, beginning with Matt Rothgangel's win over the Warriors' Joel Belmar by 6-4, 6-7 (11-7), 7-5 score.

"I really thought we were in good shape after winning the first two matches, and with Belmar going in the third I thought we'd be up 3-0," Lobdell said. "But it didn't happen. I'm sure the fact that Joel was sick the night before had something to do with that."

In the fourth singles match, East's Calen Hanks got by GCHS Mark Papp in another three-set match, 3-6, 6-4 and 6-1. Ken Eng then defeated the Warriors' Bud

Wallace benefits despite the end of replacement ball

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Joe Wallace's journey to the big leagues came up just short last weekend. But it could be starting all over where it ended — in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Wallace, a catcher and member of the St. Louis Cardinals replacement team this spring, returned to the organization's minor-league camp in St. Petersburg after final cuts were made last week. He was invited to the Cardinals' camp March 16, but he was never asked to become a replacement player and left the team last week.

EVEN THOUGH WALLACE would not have accompanied the team to St. Louis had major league owners fielded replacement teams, his willingness to do so apparently has paid off. Wallace has been assigned to play for the Cardinals' Class A St. Petersburg affiliate this season.

The assignment is a step up for Wallace, who played for Class A Madison (Wis.) in the Midwest League last year and will now play for the Cardinals' top Class A squad. St. Petersburg is a member of the Florida State League.

"It's a much better league," Wallace said. "I would have really had no regrets going back to the Midwest League. This league will probably be the best competition I've played at — even college."

Wallace, a 1990 Granite City High graduate who played three years at Oklahoma State University, signed as a free agent with the Cardinals in 1993. Over the past month, he has reached the highest point of his career.

WALLACE BEGAN SPRING training in St. Petersburg with the Cardinals' minor league camp, but was soon asked to join the replacement team, which was in need of catchers.

On March 29, the Cardinals finalized their replacement roster to 33 players and sent Wallace back to the minor league camp. But last weekend, the players union ended its strike and the owners agreed to begin the season without a lockout or replacement teams.

Wallace said he was not disappointed with the decision to lock out the players and field replacement teams.

"I have no bitter feelings about it," Wallace said. "I got called up late, and I kind of thought for a while that it wouldn't last long. I really didn't set my sights on St. Louis."

"The biggest problem with the whole strike thing was we were all up in the air. We had no idea

Softball team hits a snag after opening-day victory

By Andy Fales

The rolling stone that was once the Granite City Lady Warriors softball team has come to a screeching halt.

After springing to a 1-0 start with an impressive 10-5 home win against Roxana in the opener, the Lady Warriors promptly hit a wall. A 12-1 defeat at the hands of Bethalto Civic Memorial last Thursday and a 5-3 heartbreaker at Wood River on Tuesday dropped Granite City to 1-2.

SEARCHING FOR ANSWERS and remedies, coach John Hutchings struggles to locate either one.

"What can I say? We have, for the moment, self-destructed," he said. "We started both games on the wrong foot. We gave up two or three runs in the first inning with defensive mistakes and then just could never get back into the game."

Hutchings

We were so excited after our first game and then we just fell apart. We couldn't capitalize."

Hutchings said the memory of tough seasons past — like last year's 5-15 nightmare — puts the Lady Warriors' confidence in a fragile state.

"We still had the good taste in our mouths from the Roxana game when Bethalto jumped all over us early in the game," Hutchings said. "The girls got nervous and we couldn't keep our heads in the game. All the errors in the field and our trouble in placing the ball at the plate show that."

Little commits to WIU

Matt Little became the latest in a long list of college recruits from the Granite City High School soccer team recently when he committed to Western Illinois University.

Little, a senior who helped lead the Warriors to a second-place finish at the state tournament last fall, is the sixth GCHS player to commit. He will join Warrior goalie Mike Bristol, who has also committed to Western Illinois — an NCAA Division I school in Macomb.

Other Division I signees from Granite City include Corey Kessler (University of Evansville) and Paulie Bucherich (Alabama-Birmingham). Shawn Petroski (Southern Illinois-Edwardsville) and Travis Mills (Alabama-Huntsville) have also committed.

Little, a three-year starter, had 12 goals and a team-high 15 assists last season for the Warriors. He finished second in scoring to Petroski, who scored a school-record 43 goals.

where we were going to go. I really wanted to go to St. Louis because of my friends and family. We heard little bits and pieces. The worst thing was not knowing."

STILL, WALLACE SAID, the decision by owners to dismiss the idea of replacement games and postpone the start of the season came as no surprise to the replacement players.

The owners' decision appeared to hinge on the outcome of last week's court decision to grant the players union an injunction, which restored last year's work rules and ultimately paved the way for the end to replacement baseball.

"That was part of it," Wallace said. "We were talking about it (last week), and most of us thought it would happen. The owners didn't want to see it, the players didn't want to see it and the fans really didn't want to see the replacement players. With the season closing in, quite a few of us thought it would happen."

PLAYERS LIKE WALLACE benefited greatly from the chance to work with major league coaches last month. Wallace said the opportunity to play for the Cardinals and manager Joe Torre was a memorable experience. He added that he has no second thoughts of expressing his willingness to become a replacement player.

"I'll remember it for the rest of my life, without a doubt," Wallace said. "I learned a lot. There were a lot of people who didn't want to for their own personal reasons. You really didn't lose anything by doing it. I never had any problems."

"I have no ill feelings or repercussions about doing it. (The Cardinals) made it as easy as possible and treated everyone well."

After playing in several games for the Cardinals, Wallace returned to the minor league squad and played in a game Sunday. It was his first action with the minor league team, which played an intrasquad game the day he left for the replacement team last month.

THE TEAM'S LAST spring training game was Monday. St. Petersburg is scheduled to open the season today at Sarasota (Fla.).

While Wallace did not receive any bonus money given to the replacement players, he said he was grateful to earn a spot with St. Petersburg. Most of Wallace's teammates on the replacement team received a combined bonus of $30,000.

"The organization has always been very classy, and they proved it," Wallace said. "They didn't have to do that. They also guaranteed a job in their organization for all of the (replacement) players."

Wallace is now looking forward to getting started with St. Petersburg after a tough season in the Midwest League last year. At Madison, he batted .274 in just 36 games and missed the last part of the season when he underwent surgery.

At St. Petersburg, Wallace will be playing under manager Chris Maloney. He has established his residence in St. Petersburg with his wife, Mindy.

them in the rebound, they will most certainly include pitcher Jennifer Willis and third baseman Michaelene Millas, who, along with their team, have struggled lately at the plate and at their positions in the field. As Hutchings suspected in the preseason, Granite City's pitching now appears dangerously thin after Willis, and the bats have turned cold without the spark provided by Willis and Millas.

"We can't win in this (conference) playing the way we did in the last two games. The teams are just too tough," Hutchings said.

dy Praza 7-6, 6-2.

THE FINAL SINGLES match had Kyle Vallina of East getting by Chris Carpenter of GCHS 6-1, 7-5.

The Warriors' last win was in the first doubles match, as Belmar and Mitchell defeated the team of Hanks and Schultz 6-4, 3-6, 6-0.

Leading at that point 4-3, East finished off the Warriors by taking the final two doubles matches. Eng and Rothgangel, both sophomores, got by Markel and Papp 1-6, 6-1, 7-6; and the team of Bruner and Dave Butts defeated Carpenter and Brian Wortham 6-4, 6-2.

Lobdell was happy with the fact that the Warriors took many of the matches to three sets. "But I'm a little disappointed that we only won two of those four," he said. "We had the right people there to take them, but it just didn't happen."

"Although East is normally a power, they're down a little bit this year. They have only one senior, with three juniors and three sophomores."

With temperatures in the mid-40s and a stiff wind to boot, conditions were not the best for either team.

"It was very cold and windy, but we've practiced all year in those kinds of conditions, so we were prepared for that," he said.

"We'll just learn from this match and move on. We have a big match Thursday with Waterloo at home, so we need to get ready for that."

Granite City added its third goal at 51:09 on a penalty kick by Gauen. The kick was earned by Izzy Mohsen, a freshman who took a pass from Roxie Simpson near midfield and drove to the goal before being taken down by a defender just inside the box.

THE PK WAS awarded and Gauen converted easily with a shot to the right of Silhuay, giving the Lady Warriors a 3-0 lead and putting the game away.

Granite City dominated the final 20 minutes of play behind a steady offensive attack and the backfield play of Staci Dowdy, who started as sweeper and made a remarkable comeback from an early-season ankle injury. Dowdy played with a brace and showed little effects of the injury — a severe sprain that left her on crutches last week.

Dowdy, a striker who led the Lady Warriors in goals last year, did not miss a beat in her switch to the backfield. Several other regulars were out of the lineup with injuries, including Penny Kreher and Amy Henson.

"STACI PLAYED A superb game at sweeper," Baker said. "She's made a tremendous effort to come back."

It was the third straight victory for the Lady Warriors — and the third straight shutout for Holsinger.

"That was nice for her," Baker said. "She's been working very hard in practice."

Granite City's victory represented almost a complete turnaround from the beginning of the season, when the Lady Warriors started out 0-1-1 after an eye-opening 5-0 loss to Incarnate Word and a 2-2 tie against Alton.

"I think we played our best game," Baker said. "The girls played more as a team. We changed our team around and our personnel."

"Hopefully we're coming along now. We had a rocky start."

WALLACE SAID WHILE the Lady Hawks hope to get back on track soon, she sees plenty of potential in her team. Collinsville returns to the field today at Alton, then plays at St. Joseph's Academy on Saturday. Granite City will play host to Belleville West on Friday.

"The girls were eager to play," Wallace said. "We were forcing things. It was mainly touch with the ball and knowing where the other players are. There's a lot of things we need to get worked out."

"They worked hard and still played as a team."

Disney romanticizes story of 'Pocahontas'

It could pass for another Disney animated fairy tale: dashing, blond English colonist meets willowy, raven-haired Indian princess and they fall in love.

So what's wrong with this picture? Walt Disney Co.'s "Pocahontas," due in theaters this summer, does not square with historical fact. Unlike the make-believe stars of Disney's classic cartoon features, "Pocahontas" and John Smith actually lived.

Pocahontas had not yet reached her teens when Smith — in his early 30s at the time — arrived in the New World. Pocahontas, a chief's daughter, spared the settler from death at the hands of her angry tribe and taught him about Powhatan Indian culture. He, in turn, schooled her in English.

But the two were never an item. The cartoon Pocahontas will not be the innocent 11-year-old who saved Smith's life. Instead, she will be a slender, tawny-skinned enchantress in a form-fitting buckskin sheath.

"It's a beautiful story, if it didn't carry the name of 'Pocahontas,'" Shirley Custalow McGowan, an American Indian known to her tribe as Little Dove, said of the contrived romance.

Because of her high cheekbones, Disney artists modeled their Pocahontas character after Mrs. McGowan. During a visit in August to Disney's California studios, she discovered that both Pocahontas and Smith will be in their 20s in the movie. When she asked why, Disney officials explained that a romance would make more money, she said.

They really have it accurate about the heart and soul of our people, but they're not doing a film about the Powhatan Indians — they're doing a film about Pocahontas," said Mrs. McGowan.

The life of the real Pocahontas was not as glamorous as her cartoon namesake. She was born in 1595 near Jamestown. According to a 1612 account written by William Strachey, the British first secretary of the Virginia colony, she married a chief from her tribe when she was about 14.

In 1613, when fighting broke out between the Powhatan tribe and white settlers, Pocahontas was lured aboard an English ship and temporarily held captive. During that time, she converted to Christianity and fell in love with Englishman John Rolfe.

In 1614, they married and two years later, Rolfe sailed with her to England. There she met King James I and the British acclaimed her as an American princess. But before she could return to America, she fell ill with smallpox and died at age 21.

Somewhere along the way, the original story line faded. Disney tried to ensure the film's accuracy: its executives met with Virginia Indians and even visited Jamestown. Disney animator and director Mike Gabriel said in 1993 that the movie could be entertaining without departing from historical accuracy.

Disney officials confirmed that the movie Pocahontas will be a young woman and Smith will be twentysomething. But the studio declined repeated requests for interviews about the production.

"It's really too early to start talking about this," Disney spokesman Howard Green said. Viewers got a glimpse of "Pocahontas" last fall in a brief clip shown in theaters prior to Disney's "The Lion King," the top-grossing film of all time. In the clip, a lissome Pocahontas sang about the beauty of America to a dashing John Smith who is clearly smitten with her.

The clip has drawn mixed reviews from the nearly 10,000 Virginia Indians who are descendants of Powhatan, the father of Pocahontas.

"I've got some serious reservations from what I saw of it," said Warren Cooke, assistant chief of the Pamunkey tribe. Cooke said Disney has an obligation to be true to the life of
